Introduction

This is a bibliography of the Scottish Parliament, not about it. Its objective is to help people to understand the Parliament and its work through the relevant documentation. The Stationery Office (TSO) and the Parliament have co-operated in this new venture. The bibliography includes both documents which are published by TSO and those that are not. As the title suggests, it also includes statutory publications. We have given guidance on how to obtain each type of document. Under each heading we have combined explanations with listings to provide a comprehensive and comprehensible guide to the Parliament’s documentation.

This bibliography will be published twice a year. The first volume covers the period from July to December; the second is a cumulative edition which covers the whole of the period up to the end of June.

Background - before the Scottish Parliament came into being

Three main strands of thinking have influenced the form and style of the devolution scheme in general and the Parliament in particular. These are reflected in the Scottish Constitutional Convention, the July 1997 white paper, and the Consultative Steering Group.

The Scottish Constitutional Convention was composed of a number of Scottish political parties and many other public groups and organisations. It was established in the aftermath of the 1987 general election to draw up a scheme for a Scottish Assembly or Parliament. The group did not include the Conservatives (who declined to participate) and the SNP (who withdrew at the preliminary stage). The SCC produced a number of influential reports, especially its final report, Scotland’s Parliament, Scotland’s Right, published in November 1995.

The Government white paper, Scotland’s Parliament (Cm 3658, July 1997) was the culmination of the development of the Labour Party’s policy on devolution. It fleshed out the devolution policy proposed in Labour’s 1997 general election manifesto, New Labour: because Scotland deserves better (April 1997) and formed the basis for the Scotland Bill, now the Scotland Act 1998.

The Consultative Steering Group (CSG) was an advisory body set up by the Secretary of State for Scotland in November 1997. The CSG was chaired by Henry McLeish, then Scottish Office Minister for Devolution, and was composed of representatives of the four major parties and of other civic groups and interests. Its remit was to report on the “operational needs and working methods” of the Parliament and to make proposals for its Standing Orders and rules of procedure. Its main report, Shaping Scotland’s Parliament, was published in January 1999. The report and working papers are currently available on the Scottish Executive website (www.scotland.gov.uk).

The Parliament’s first meetings

Elections were held on 7th May 1999, when 129 Members were elected to the Scottish Parliament. Of these, 73 are members for individual constituencies (with the same boundaries as the constituencies used to elect Members to the United Kingdom Parliament, other than the division of Orkney and Shetland). The remaining 56 were elected for eight larger geographical regions (identical to the old European Parliament constituencies), each of which has 7 MSPs. The first meeting of the Parliament took place on 12th May 1999. The Parliament gained its full legislative powers on 1st July, when it was formally opened by the Queen.
Parliamentary procedure

The detailed arrangements for the operation of the Scottish Parliament are provided for in its Standing Orders, which flesh out the statutory provisions in the Scotland Act 1998 (see s22 and sch 3) and elsewhere. Standing Orders were promulgated for the initial period of the Parliament’s existence by the Secretary of State under powers granted in the 1998 Act, and were contained in SI 1999 no.1095 Scotland Act 1998 (Transitory and Transitional Provisions) (Standing Orders and Parliamentary Publications) Order 1999. A revised set of Standing Orders was agreed by the Scottish Parliament itself on 9 December 1999, came into force on 17 December 1999, and are available on the Parliament’s website.

Publication policy

In line with the CSG’s principles of openness and accessibility, the Parliament is committed to publishing all of its documents and proceedings both on its website (www.scottish.parliament.uk) and also in printed form. The guide that follows is based primarily on the printed documentation, but reference is made, where appropriate, to items which may be solely available electronically.

All Parliamentary copyrights are reserved. Individuals are authorised to download text from the Parliament’s website or to copy printed documents for their own individual use. Any other proposed reproduction requires the assent of the Copyright Unit of Her Majesty’s Stationery Office, which administers the copyright on behalf of the Scottish Parliamentary Corporate Body. These guides are available on the Scottish Parliament website (www.scottish.parliament.uk). Those with an ISBN and price are published by The Stationery Office. The other publications, including the video, are available in the Partner Libraries.

Factfiles

Factfiles are produced by the Scottish Parliament Public Information Service. They are available, free, from the Scottish Parliament Public Information Service. More detailed background information can be found in the Scottish Parliament Information Centre’s Subject Maps: Scottish Parliament series.

8* The Scottish Parliament and the Scottish Executive - Roles and Responsibilities
Bills are proposals for laws which the Parliament discusses and decides whether they should become acts. A bill is issued with mandatory accompanying documents which state whether it is within the Parliament's legislative competence (statement of legislative competence) and explain the bill's provisions (explanatory notes) and the policy behind the bill (policy memorandum). Another accompanying document sets out estimates of the bill's administrative and other costs (financial memorandum). For more information on Bills, see 'Guidance on public bills' produced by the Scottish Parliament Clerking Services Directorate.

Bills are numbered sequentially as they are published, in the following way - SP Bill 1, SP Bill 2 etc. Accompanying papers have the same numbering system as the bill they relate to but with the addition of an explanatory abbreviation, eg, SP Bill 1-EN (explanatory notes), SP Bill 1-PM (policy memorandum). Subsequent versions of the bill are numbered SP Bill 1A, SP Bill 1B etc. Each stage of the bill has an addendum to the title describing which version it is - [As Introduced], [As Amended at Stage...], [As Passed].

Parliamentary Papers

Most SP papers are reports of a Committee enquiry into a subject, eg. subordinate legislation, or bills of the Scottish Parliament. SP papers also include other publications produced by the Parliament, such annual reports of the Scottish Parliamentary Corporate Body and Scottish Parliament statistics.

Each document has the session and year on the front cover: Session 1 (1999). Published with 2 numbering sequences:

1. SP Paper number - numbered sequentially as they are published regardless of which committee report it is. The Papers issued by a particular committee are grouped in the index.

2. Committee number - numbering sequence which relates to the committee, appears on the first page of the report and consists of a code identifying committee, followed by year, then committee report number, assigned sequentially as the committee publishes the reports, e.g. AU/99/R1. Where a report splits into more than 1 volume, each volume retains the same SP Paper number and committee number. The prefixes for each committee are listed below:

Committee Proceedings

Official Report

Scottish Parliament Official Report is a verbatim authoritative report of parliamentary committee proceedings. A committee is a body of between five and fifteen MSPs, chaired by a convener, formed to deal with particular parliamentary business, such as enquiries into Scottish Executive policies and actions, and detailed scrutiny of bills. For more information on committees, see Guidance for the Operation of Committees (produced by the Clerking Services Directorate).

General notes re organisation and numbering: All have day, time of day and date on front cover, e.g. Wednesday 30 June 1999 (Morning). They are numbered sequentially from the 1st January each year. Where a meeting has been held outwith the Parliamentary Estate this is indicated in the cover title, e.g. Enterprise and Lifelong Learning Committee (Inverness).

Chapter 14 of the Scottish Parliament’s standing orders provide rules as to the laying of documents, such as reports, before the Parliament. Many types of documents, such as financial reports or annual reports of public bodies, are required by legislation or otherwise to be so laid. Some of the papers have been laid out of numerical order; these papers will be laid in the near future.

The papers are laid by the Scottish Executive and not all of them are published by The Stationery Office. To differentiate these items, TSO publications are marked by an asterisk. If you require more information about laid papers which are not published by TSO please contact the Scottish Executive Library and Information Service (see contacts page).

Statutory Instruments

SCOTTISH STATUTORY INSTRUMENTS

The primary legislation of the country is carried through Parliament in the form of Bills. When passed these become Acts of Parliament. An Act may confer powers on Ministers to introduce more detailed rules at a later stage, or it may specify details which may subsequently require amending. To allow this to be done without passing a new Act of Parliament, Ministers may introduce Scottish Statutory Instruments (SSIs). Also known as secondary, delegated or subordinate legislation, statutory instruments are equally a part of the law as the original Act.

There is a category of Statutory Instruments which is not formally published because they have a limited local effect. They are referred to as Local SIs or Unpublished SIs. They are differentiated by an asterisk. If you want more information about them please contact the Scottish Executive Library and Information Service.

SSIs are available to members of the public in the National Library of Scotland.

This list is printed under the authority and superintendence of the Queen’s Printer for Scotland.

Standing Orders

Where there is great variation in the length of documents, or an unpredictability in the number of documents, a standing order service is available. You will be automatically sent the relevant publications which will be invoiced separately.

The Stationery Office has detailed classification for standing orders so that it is possible to order documents in particular subject areas as well as types of publication (ie it is possible to order publications on housing and planning or just statutory instruments on housing and planning). All the codes are listed in the Standing Order Handbook, which is available, free of charge, from TSO.

Working in close co-operation with the public library sector, the Scottish Parliament Information Centre (SPICe) has established a network of 80 Partner Libraries throughout Scotland - one in each parliamentary constituency, plus an additional seven mostly in the Highlands and islands, to reflect the unique geographic and transport problems faced by constituents in rural areas.

Partner Libraries act as focal points in local communities for information from and about the Parliament, and provide a fast-track for answering enquiries from constituents ensuring that individuals have access to accurate, authoritative and up-to-date information about MSPs, the Parliament, its business and decisions. The Partner Library network is one of the most visible ways in which the Parliament delivers on its commitment to be open, accessible, accountable and participative.

By ensuring direct access to primary parliamentary sources and by working in close liaison with offices such as the Scottish Parliament's Public Information Service and Education Officer, many enquiries can be dealt with through the Partner Libraries.

Information will be available not only through printed publications, but also electronically to anyone who has access to the Internet, through a direct link to the Parliament Website. Some Partner Libraries plan to offer free access to the Scottish Parliament Website through publicly accessible Internet terminals, while others currently charge for public Internet access. Those libraries marked with an asterisk are also European Public Information Centres (EPICs).
