

Policy on Use of SPCB Copyright Material

We are committed to making the information published by the Scottish Parliament open and accessible and you are encouraged to use and re-use the information that is available under this Scottish Parliament Copyright Licence freely and flexibly with only a few conditions.

General use of SPCB published material

Published material may be reproduced without formal permission subject to the conditions of the Scottish Parliament Copyright Licence. Where any material is republished or copied to others or included in any application, the source of the material must be acknowledged by including an attribution statement and where possible by providing a link to the Scottish Parliament Licence. You can use the following statement to attribute the source of the material you are using:

Contains information licenced under the Scottish Parliament Copyright Licence.

Please note that this licence does not allow you to use any material in a way that suggests any official status or that the SPCB endorses you or your use of the information.

This licence does not allow you to use published material provided in any format in connection with party political purposes or in connection with advertising endorsement.

Use of the Corporate Identity

The Scottish Parliament Corporate Identity, comprising the badge and/or the graphic device consisting of the words "The Scottish Parliament" in English and Gaelic, is the property of the Scottish Parliamentary Corporate Body (SPCB) and cannot be reproduced without its specific prior approval. This requirement extends to other logos including for example the Festival of Politics Logo which cannot be reproduced without prior approval from the SPCB. For further information on the use of the Corporate Identity please contact corporateidentity@parliament.scot

Use of the Scottish Parliament RSS feeds

Any content made available by a feed is covered by the Scottish Parliament Copyright Licence and users must acknowledge the SPCB as the source of any content displayed.

Linking to Scottish Parliament websites and social media

The SPCB is content for users to establish hypertext links to any of our sites, as long as the sites appear in their normal form (eg they must not appear within the host's own frames).

Posting material on SPCB-hosted sites

Contributors to any forums are responsible for what they post and should ensure that what they post is covered either by an open licence or is being used with the consent of the copyright holder.

Further context, best practice and guidance can be found in the UK Government Licensing Framework section on The National Archives website.
