EDUCATION (SCOTLAND) BILL – CALL FOR EVIDENCE
MAY 2015

PAS welcomes the opportunity to comment on the Education (Scotland) Bill.

PAS

PAS is an independent organisation that helps people in Scotland to understand and engage with the places they live in through advice, training, education and awareness raising, so that everyone has the power to create positive communities for the future.

PAS is the trusted body for anyone looking to understand the places around them and the planning process. PAS believes that education and participation are key to enabling our communities to engage with the built places around them.

PAS runs a series of education programmes specifically aimed at facilitating young people to understand and engage with the places around them, and to build active citizenship amongst Scotland’s young people.

COMMENT

PAS recognises the importance and the need to “promote equity of attainment for disadvantaged children and take steps towards narrowing the attainment gap”. PAS education programmes ensure that the voices of young people are heard and that young people are given the tools that will enable them to become active citizens in their local communities.

CONTACTS

PAS would be pleased to respond to any queries with regard to this call for evidence and is always willing to consider a joint venture with the promoters of the consultation document to take forward further research or training on any aspect of the subject which relates to the PAS’s core business.
