How would you characterise your views on the Bill in general?
In support
Long overdue.

How would you characterise your views on the introduction of same sex marriage, so that same sex couples can marry each other?
In support
Long overdue.

How would you characterise your views on putting belief celebrants on the same footing as religious celebrants?
In support

How would you characterise your views on the arrangements for authorising celebrants to solemnise opposite sex and same sex marriage (including the opt-in procedures)?
In support

How would you characterise your views on civil partnerships changing to marriages?
In support
Marriage is marriage.

How would you characterise your views on allowing civil marriage ceremonies to take place anywhere, other than religious premises, agreed between the couple and registrar?
In support
Modern and flexible approach.

How would you characterise your views on allowing the religious and belief registration of civil partnerships?
In support

How would you characterise your views on allowing transgender persons to stay married when obtaining a full Gender Recognition Certificate, which provides legal recognition in the acquired gender?
In support

Modern and accommodating.

Would you like to comment on the wider issue of protections for those in society who may have concerns about same sex marriage?

My instinct is that they should grow up and they are swimming against the tide of history. In a generation many who most strongly hold the views of the past will no longer be alive and whilst I respect their views the majority of society should be allowed to modernise with or without them on board.

Would you like to comment on the wider issue of freedom of speech?

I better not - GCHQ might be reading this. Will an independent Scotland have an equivalent Spy network?

Would you like to comment on any other wider issues in relation to the Bill that are not mentioned above?

Hurry up and pass it into law please. :o)

Are you responding as...

a private individual

Craig Morton
23 August 2013