How would you characterise your views on the Bill in general?

In support

Scotland is supposed to be a fair an democratic country. We cannot claim this if we discriminate against any group of people.

How would you characterise your views on the introduction of same sex marriage, so that same sex couples can marry each other?

In support

There are no clear reasons for why same sex couples should be treated any differently to opposite sex couples. No law which effects the population should be based on religious reasons.

How would you characterise your views on putting belief celebrants on the same footing as religious celebrants?

In support

Again why would people with different beliefs be treat differently? There are no understandable reasons.

How would you characterise your views on the arrangements for authorising celebrants to solemnise opposite sex and same sex marriage (including the opt-in procedures)?

How would you characterise your views on civil partnerships changing to marriages?

In support

A specific religion should not have control over the entire population. It is up to people to have the choice in a free and democratic country.

How would you characterise your views on allowing civil marriage ceremonies to take place anywhere, other than religious premises, agreed between the couple and registrar?

In support

How would you characterise your views on allowing the religious and belief registration of civil partnerships?

In support
How would you characterise your views on allowing transgender persons to stay married when obtaining a full Gender Recognition Certificate, which provides legal recognition in the acquired gender?

In support

Would you like to comment on the wider issue of protections for those in society who may have concerns about same sex marriage?

Would you like to comment on the wider issue of freedom of speech?

Would you like to comment on any other wider issues in relation to the Bill that are not mentioned above?

Are you responding as...

a private individual

Alex Priest
21 August 2013