I would like to bring to your attention that in the Alloway district BT broadband is very poor and is still referred to by the older generation as working with valves. It also tends to drop off quite often and is blamed on old exchange. The adverts that BT put in the media about how good they are leaves questions. The final point is that when you are forced to phone them, all calls are routed abroad making it very difficult to understand.