I would like to register my protest and outrage that the Orange Order parades through the city of Glasgow.

The bigotry that the Orange Order and the parades perpetuate is an affront to a civilised country. We are trying to eliminate religious bigotry in Scotland and in particular in the West of Scotland. Bigotry is a scourge in a civilised society and these parades hamper that progress. They turn the clock back 100 years and 75% of Scots would like to see them banned.

The battle the Orange Order commemorates took place on Irish soil and therefore the parades should remain in N Ireland and not be inflicted on Scotland.

Irene Beavis
1 July 2017