

PE1651/YYYYYYY

Anonymous submission of 15 February 2018

I am a member of an online group, speaking up about abusive psychiatry.

The information I provide is brief, as there is much, much more to my story. It started in 2012. My life has been destroyed, because I was the target of severe workplace bullying, gaslighting, lies, slander and false accusations. The people behind this, have connections within government departments.

I would be happy to provide much more information. I am located in Australia, however I have understood that the problem with abusive psychiatry is worldwide. It is costing the society money and innocent lives. People who seek assistance from psychiatry, are often the victims and in great distress. This is responded to by drugging the victim, labelling them with crippling diagnosis, discrediting them and often destroying their lives.

Here is brief information from me:

I also have experience from doctors taking absolutely no responsibility for side effects. They ignore it completely. I have had physical issues, after taking Venlafaxine. This includes autoimmune thyroiditis. My "sharpness", problem solving skills, motivation etc, has not returned to "normal", as it was prior to taking the medication. As I have never been a fan of taking medication, I did not take the double dose prescribed by the psychiatrist, even when I said I felt better. Later I found that this psychiatrist had diagnosed me with a severe personality disorder, without even mentioning this to me. Our meetings were brief, and there is no way the psychiatrist would have had a fair picture of my life, ability, trauma etc, which was the direct cause of the depression. It is my opinion that psychiatrists are criminals, when they are not carefully taking all aspect of a person's life and situation, into account, before diagnosing and prescribing medication. Unfortunately, that is very common, and legally accepted. The question is Why? Why are any health professionals allowed to lie and destroy, fully functional, innocent people's lives?! I am one of the lucky ones, who are slowly getting back to "normal", after many years. I have been gangstalked for many years, following what triggered the depression. The gangstalking appears to be motivated as an attempt to make me appear to be as per the severe personality disorder made up by the psychiatrist. There is evidence of many of those situations, but law enforcement refuse to listen to me, because of the diagnosis of mental illness, severe personality disorder. Before I was put in this situation, I was a "normal" person, doing things like most people are doing. have always supported myself, working full-time. I have lost all savings and small investment and close to losing my home. This appears to be a common situation, for anyone who has ever sought the assistance from psychiatrists, when having gone through major distressing situations. It is directly criminal.

There is extensively much more to this story, which links to people high up in public service, misrepresentation by lawyer, perjury by the people I'm a victim of, links to the medical centre I've been attending and the GP, who I was first in contact with, who willingly or unwillingly would have been an important witness, passed away a few months ago, much too young. The information does not end there. I will join any professional "fight", which is transparent and honest, to abolish psychiatry and the damaging drugs. What I have found out, it looks like honest and "good" people are targeted.