WRITTEN SUBMISSION

As someone who volunteers within his community to try to improve conditions for cycling and walking (in line with Scottish Government policy), I have been disappointed to read reports that the SG's transparency on spending on walking and cycling is below par.

Clearly to meet targets set the country will need a better balance of spending on the various transport modes but assessment of this balance, depends upon robust and open accounts.

I therefore write in support of the ICI's call for greater clarity on SG spending on active travel.
