Introduction

1. This report covers the work of the Citizen Participation and Public Petitions Committee during the parliamentary year from 13 May 2021 to 12 May 2022.
2. Over that period the Committee considered public petitions addressed to the Scottish Parliament, and explored its extended remit, while continuing to adapt to the challenges presented by Covid-19.
3. The Committee met on 16 occasions over the year, virtually, in hybrid form and in-person. The majority of the Committee's work is considered in public.

Membership changes

4. Previous Members of the Committee during the Parliamentary year–
- Tess White MSP left the Committee on 06 October 2021 and was replaced by Alexander Stewart MSP.
 - Bill Kidd MSP left the Committee on 19 January 2022 and was replaced by Ruth Maguire MSP.
 - Ruth Maguire MSP left the Committee on 20 April 2022 and was replaced by Fergus Ewing MSP.

The work of the Committee - Citizen Participation

5. At the start of the Parliamentary session the remit of the Committee was extended to include citizen participation.
6. Over the course of this year, the Committee has been considering its extended remit and how the Scottish Parliament should embed citizen participation, including deliberative engagement.
7. The Committee launched an inquiry at the start of May 2022 to ensure that the Scottish Parliament's work involves, reflects and meets the needs of the full range of communities it represents.
8. This inquiry is seeking to understand why some individuals and groups are more closely involved in the Scottish Parliament's work than others, and why some are not involved at all.
9. This includes, but is not limited to, disabled people, people from minority ethnic groups and people living on a low income.
10. The inquiry will help us critically analyse the way in which the Parliament currently operates, including establishing where there are barriers to individuals and communities becoming involved in our work and establishing innovative ways for us to engage in the future.
11. It is the first stage in a wider, long-term project which will look at how citizen participation can be embedded across the Scottish Parliament.
12. The Committee also took evidence from members of the Scottish Government Institutionalising Participatory and Deliberative Democracy Working Group on its report to the Scottish Government, which was published in March 2022.
13. The Committee considered the recommendations to make Scotland's democracy more participative and inclusive and plans to meet with the Minister for Parliamentary Business on the Scottish Government's response to the report early in the new parliamentary year.

The work of the Committee - public petitions

14. During the Parliamentary year from 13 May 2021 to 12 May 2022, the Committee met on 16 occasions and considered a total of 68 new petitions on a diverse range of issues.
15. 71 new petitions were published in total and those which have not yet been considered by the Committee will be scheduled for consideration in the next parliamentary year.
16. 15 new Petitions were submitted by groups or organisations and 56 were submitted by individuals.
17. The Committee has received SPICe briefings and advanced views from the Scottish Government on all new petitions. This has allowed the Committee to make informed decisions on new petitions at their first consideration.
18. This approach has worked well, and the Committee is grateful to the Scottish Government for engaging positively with these requests for information.
19. The majority of the information gathered by the Committee is through written submissions from—
 - the Scottish Government
 - petitioners
 - members of the public
 - relevant organisations with an interest in the petition.
20. The Committee received 623 written submissions during the Parliamentary year.
21. The Committee has also heard oral evidence on petitions. During the parliamentary year, evidence sessions were conducted both virtually and in person. This enabled the Committee to hear from a wide range of people and organisations from Scotland and beyond. The Committee heard from 23 people over 7 evidence sessions.
22. This parliamentary year the Committee took evidence on the following petitions:
 - PE1804: Halt Highlands and Islands Airports Ltd.'s Air Traffic Management Strategy, lodged by Alasdair MacEachen, John Doig and Peter Henderson, on behalf of Benbecula Community Council. The Committee heard evidence from one of the petitioners, from Prospect and from Highlands and Islands Airports Ltd.
 - PE1812: Protect Scotland's remaining ancient, native and semi-native woodlands and woodland floors, lodged by Audrey Baird and Fiona Baker. The Committee took evidence from the petitioners, from a round-table of stakeholders and from the Minister for Environment and Land Reform.

The Public Petitions system

24. The Committee has a remit to 'keep under review the operation of the petitions system'.
25. A new petitions system was launched at the start of the parliamentary year. This seeks to improve the accessibility and efficiency of the petitions process. In doing so it will ensure that website content is user-centred, easily located, consistent and accessible.
26. The system is supported by guidance on the rules for admissible petitions and the petitions process.
27. The Committee is keeping the operation of this system under review and will be considering how best to capture the experience of petitioners, and consider who is, and is not, petitioning the Parliament, over the coming year.

Equalities and Diversity

28. The Committee is keen to ensure that the petitions process is made accessible to the widest range of people.
29. To achieve this, the Committee seeks to remove any barriers that may prevent people creating a petition and to regularly review who is, and who is not, petitioning the Scottish Parliament, alongside exploring why this might be the case.
30. In addition to the review of the Public Petitions System, the Committee's Citizen Participation inquiry will inform the Committee's understanding of and take actions to enhance the diversity of those engaging with the Committee and with the Parliament.
31. The Committee receives petitions on a diverse range of issues concerning equality within society and ensures they are given a platform to be considered.
32. Examples from the past year include—

 - PE1866: Introduce legislation to improve bus travel for wheelchair users
