10th Meeting, 2025 (Session 6)

A climate transition for agriculture: processes and outcomes

1. The aim of this session with academics and climate experts is to explore what the decarbonisation of agriculture will mean in practice for the sector. It is also an opportunity for the Committee to discuss the seventh Carbon Budget and Scotland's National Adaptation Plan in so far as they relate to agricultural policy.
2. This session follows a session with stakeholders from the farming sector on 12 March 2025. Evidence gathered from these meetings will inform the Committee's scrutiny for the agricultural section of the upcoming Climate Change Plan which is expected to be laid in draft later this year.
