Introduction

1. The Crofting and Scottish Land Court Bill was introduced by the Scottish Government on 2 June 2025. The accompanying documents for this Bill are published on the Parliament's website.

Background to the Bill

2. Crofters actively manage land and livestock, engage in diversified rural enterprises, protect biodiversity, and uphold local traditions and community life. The Scottish Government states that it recognises crofting as being essential to sustaining rural communities, supporting the economy, protecting biodiversity, and preserving cultural heritage across the Highlands, Islands, Argyll, the Hebrides and the Northern Isles.
3. The Bill is in 2 parts. Part 1 would amend the Crofters \(Scotland\) Act 1993 and the Crofting Reform \(Scotland\) Act 2010 with the aim of making crofting regulation less onerous and streamlining processes for crofters and the Crofting Commission.
4. Part one will also expand the powers of the Crofting Commission and introduce changes to enforcement of crofter duties, common grazings and the Crofting Register.
5. The Scottish Government consulted on crofting reform proposals between 6 June to 2 September 2024. The Scottish Government published its analysis of consultation responses on crofting reform on 15 November 2024.
6. Part two proposes to merge the Scottish Land Court and Lands Tribunal for Scotland into a single expanded Scottish Land Court, aiming for “structural coherence and streamlined administration”.
7. The Scottish Government consulted on the amalgamation of the Scottish Land Court and Lands Tribunal for Scotland between 27 July and 19 October 2020. The Scottish Government published its analysis of consultation responses on the merger of the Scottish Land Court and Lands Tribunal for Scotland in June 2021.
8. The policy memorandum states that the Bill aims to strengthen crofting in seven key areas:
 - crofting communities

- common grazings
- the Crofting Register
- electronic communications
- simplifications and clarifications of crofting law.
